A CHARMING STORY.

ard In a Public Garden at Sara

On the evening of the garden party at the Grand Union Hotel—a famous affair indeed—the writer, to isolate himself from the crowd, had retired to the upper end of the garden, and was musing by the fence, when the sound of two feminine voices near by roused his mind from its reveries. The two women were seated on a bench with their backs towards him. The trunk of a tree concealed him Of every description sold cheap by

"I am on the verge of despair," said one of them; "I really do not know what to do with that boy."

The boy in question was not her son, as the writer supposed at first, but her husband.

"Just fancy what he did last night. He was charming to me. He seemed to have understood my silent re-proaches and perceived that I was still as pretty as two years since, when I was wedded to him. He was very loving to me. Instead of musing over his paper, he petted and kissed me-in short, I was perfectly happy. This morning he arose earlier than I. He morning he arose earlier than I. He kissed me good morning while I was still dezing and left the room. Ten or fifteen minutes later he hastily reor fifteen minutes later he hastily returned. He said he had forgotten his cigar case. He began to look for it and seemed to be dreadfully vexed at not finding it. He finally gave up searching, and took his departure, almost swearing at my absent-mindedness. The affair seemed suspicious to me, for the cigar case itself was a worthless thing. When I had arisen, in putting away the dress I had on last evening, the article fell to the floor. Almost mechanically I opened it. There was nothing else in it than a little piece of paper. My heart bounded to my throat. I supposed it was a billet doux. I trembled as I read it. It contained only the following words: "This evening to be loving words: "This evening to be lov-ing to my wife." Think of my rage His tenderness of the night previous, then, was not spontaneous. It was made to order. Rob had placed a memorandum in his eigar case to recallit to his mind. What do you think of that?"

"I think my dear," rejoined the woman, who had so far listened most atteatively, "that, had I to deal with a husband as absent-minded as yours, I would not worry about it. I would simply but into his cigar case every day a slip of paper containing the same words, with the hope that they would always have the same effect."

CALUMNY AND CRIME.

One of the most disgraceful chapters in the history of the Democratic party is that relating to the forged Morey letter. Two of the witnesses who gave testimony for the prisoner in the trial of the forger Philp have confessed themselves guilty of perjury and been lodged in jail. They were no doubt hired by the agents of the Democratic Committee to swear falsely. There pever was any reasonable donbt, from the time of Gen. Garfield's Ross Lewers, D. denunciation of the letter, that it was a forgery. Yet the Democratic Na- Sherifftional Committee persisted in sending W. A. Walker, D. copies of it broadcast through the County Clerk—country on the eve of the election, Nate W. Roff, R. hoping to win a desperate fight through the aid of forgery and fraud. The attempt failed to affect the general result, though it perhaps lost California to the Republicans. But, in the long run, the Republican party will gain largely by that Morey forgery. The infamy of that fraud will forever disgrace the Democracy. Honest men should blush to find themselves in a party which does not stop County Treasurer—Daniel B. Boyd, R....

The Morey letter was, after all, a fitting close to the work of the Democracy during the campaign. Their G. A. Rankin, D work began with calumny and ended

TALK IS CHEAP.

If you go to the right place to get them. This is a mighty important point, for some people who assert that they sell cheap do nothing of the kind. We do not boast when we say that we defy competition in prices in anything in our line. Besides this we have only one price. We have no preferred customers. Everybody is treated alike at our establishment. Our stock is the largest and most complete ever offered in any part of this State. Everything we have is new. No old, musty and out-of date goods can be found on our shelves. We receive daily by rail and express the latest and best goods, which are obtained at first hand and sold at prices below those now prevailing in New York and Chicago. Let the people come and judge of our prices and examine our stock before going into those humbugging, Cheap John shops, in which they drum into the ear of the customer that they sell at cost an I even below cost. Anybody with common sense must know that they lie. No storekeeper sells goods for the fun of the thing. We make a proft on everything we sell, as every honest merchant does, and don't print foolish falsehoods in the vain hope of decieving the public. One must make a profit to live. We particularly call attention to our full stock of fancy underwear, such as is kept nowhere else in Reno. This class of goods form one of our specialties. Orders from the country promptly attended to. Look out for the White Building with the Gold Sign.
